TAPERING OFF.—The following story (which is literally true) has been told us, and deserves publicity. A stranger, a day or two since, entered an Apothecary's store in this city, and asked the clerk—who is a very shrewd and intelligent young man—for some BRANDY, stating that he wanted it for medicinal purposes. The clerk seeing through his case, declined selling the liquor, as the Apothecary himself was not present. The man was however importunate, saying: that if the clerk did not believe his tale of sickness, that he would bring up a witness from the Depot, who would verify it &c.—The clerk, however, was unyielding, referring him to the absent Apothecary. After considerable begging, without success, the man leaned over the counter and said, in a confidential tone, "come, let's have it—I'll tell you the truth—I only want a pint to taper off with!

The clerk smiled all over, but refused, thinking that he may have wanted to "taper on with," while the unsuccessful applicant departed. For such a disease as his, there is but one remedy, and that is the "Water Cure."

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

The "Volksfreund" has a peculiar article, this morning, on the importance of supporting the party nominees for Supreme Judges. With those who recognize no higher aim nor obligation than party, this appeal may have some weight. But with those who believe the best men should be selected for the bench, irrespective of party, it will not have the weight of a straw. The delegates to the party Convention were chosen by a very few individuals, and in no wise represented the mass of the Democratic voters. In many Districts, the whole thing was a farce, and to regard such action binding on the party, is absurd and unjust.

We have always been opposed to party nominations for the bench. Those who framed the Constitution were opposed to it, and the Judicial election, was, by the Constitution, restricted to a special day, a month apart from all other elections, for the express purpose of keeping it separate from party politics. And a respectable number of the party presses have taken this view of the subject, and have discouraged party action in the election of Judges. And large numbers of Democrats, in all portions of the State, now repudiate all party action, and go in for a Separate Supreme Court, elected without reference to party.

We look on this, as the true course. But we fear the delegate Convention will not be a fair representation of the people, and will be governed by personal, rather than by high, patriotic motives. We want no Conventions to ratify a cut-and-dried ticket, unless the people have already unmistakeably indicated the men on that ticket, as their choice. If the Convention, discarding all personal and partizan influences, shall present an unexceptionable ticket, of well-qualified candidates, it will doubtless be elected. We wait to see what that Convention brings forth.

☞ The only item of news in the last Marquette Mercury is the following:

"John P. Hale refuses to lend his name to a third party organization. This may be regarded as a declaration in favor of the Democratic nominee."

Mr. Hale distinctly stated in his letter, that the Free Democracy must not abandon their organization, and that he should support the nominees of the Pittsburgh Convention. We don't see what is to be gained by the circulation of such falsehoods as the Mercury has published.

☞ Mr. W. W. Lake has sent us a series of resolutions passed by a meeting of one, thanking Divine Providence for his miraculous escapes from death on a bridge, boat, and on the South pier, in coming from Albany to Milwaukee, and also thanking the proprietors and officers of all those structures. It is designed as a burlesque on the customary resolutions of thanks given by passengers to railroad and steamboat lines.

State League.—Dr. Hunt, of the Oaken Bucket, proposes the formation of a State Temperance League at Madison, Oct. 21st, when the Grand Division of Sons hold their annual meeting. The mass State Temperance convention, at Watertown, to-day, and at Troy to-morrow, should consider this suggestion, and if they approve it, act on it.—There should be concert among Temperance men. They should unite upon some definite line of policy—some specific law to ask for, and press it with a singleness of purpose and resoluteness of will, which shall overcome all opposition. There is temperance strength enough in this state, could it be released from the shackles of party, and be united and embodied, to create a righteous temperance law. But as long as men are ready to sacrifice principle to party, very little can be done. The discussion of the subject, however, can but be productive of good.

Judicial Convention.—Meetings are notified to be held, in the following places, on Saturday evening, to appoint delegates to the Madison Independent Judicial Convention:

Oak Creek and Franklin—At J. J. Mason's, Oak Creek.

Lake and Greenfield—At the Layton House, town of Lake.

Wauwatosa—At the School House in the village of Wauwatosa.

In this city at the usual places of holding elections.

Also,

Milwaukee and Granville, on Friday 27th, at 4 P. M., at Beck's Tavern, in Granville.

Mass Temperance Convention.—A mass Temperance Convention was held at Berlin, Marquette county, on the 13th inst., and delegates to the Watertown State Temperance Convention, were appointed, and resolutions in favor of the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors were adopted.

☞ We have received a very strong Address to Land Reformers, from Mr. Van Amringe, which we shall publish as soon as we can find room for it.

Also Mr. Durkee's speech on the River and Harbor bill, which we shall publish to-morrow.

☞ Col. T. F. Broadhead has retired from the Detroit Free Press, leaving it in the hands of S. M. Johnson.

A Windfall.—Dr. Collyer, who first introduced the exhibition of Model Artists, in N. Y. City, has lately become heir to a fortune of $600,000. The Doctor gets this plum by the failure of a relative to make a will, although he had designed disposing of his property in a different manner.

☞ It is said that the owners of the Henry Clay refuse to pay for the services of those who were engaged in grappling for the dead bodies.

Fire.—At Utica, N. Y., on the night of the 18th inst., $30,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire, and on the following morning, in the same place, a bridge gave way, precipitating about a dozen persons into the canal—all escaped.

The Revenue Cutter Taney.—The Committee appointed to make a survey of this vessel, report that it will cost about $5,000 to fit her for service.

☞ The U. S. Steamship Crescent City, arrived at New York, on the 1st inst, made the trip from New Orleans to New York, via Havana, in 6 days and 8 hours, being the shortest trip on record.

☞ The Crawford Co Courier calls for a good miller, to purchase or lease, and repair and put in operation the flouring mill at that place. It says the water power is a first-rate one.

☞ The making of brick has been commenced in Prairie du Chien, and it is in good demand there—being all contracted for before it is burnt.

☞ It is a custom among the Sioux Indians to cut off the nose of an unfaithful wife. As an admirer of beauty, we shou'd hate to see such a practice adopted among the whites, and we don't mention it to induce civilized humans to try the experiment.

☞ Another change has taken place, in part, of the proprietors of the Baraboo Standard.

☞ The Temperance lectures of the distinguished Gen. Riley, at Baraboo, has inspired the editor of the Standard of that place with new faith in the efficacy of the "Maine Liquor Law," to destroy the evils of intemperance; and he says that scores of the citizens of that place, who were heretofore undecided on this question, now openly avow their readiness to vote for the prohibition of the liquor traffic. Gen Riley is an effective and interesting speaker, and we rejoice to learn that he has stirred up the "dry bones" at Baraboo.

☞ Now winter wheat is selling at Fort Winnebago, Columbia county, at 45 cents per bushel.

Generous.—The Erie and State Line Railroads carried many of the survivors of the disaster to Buffalo, free of charge.

☞ One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars worth of lumber and buildings were destroyed by fire, at West Troy, N. Y., on Thursday morning last.

☞ The Platteville American heartily approves of the independent convention to nominate Judges for the Supreme Court. It thinks the name of Edward V. Whiton, for Chief Justice, and James S. Brown, of Milwaukee, and James S. Knowlton, of La Fayette co., for Associate Judges, will stand foremost in the Madison Convention, and such a ticket, it thinks, would be elected by an overwhelming majority.

☞ The editor of the Platteville American has been presented with some fine plumbs, grown in that place.

Mr. F. S. Lovell, has been chosen to represent the Kenosha Assembly Disiriet in the Madison Judicial Convention.

Denial.—The Marquette Mercury says that M. E. Daniels, of Oconto, denies saying, at the Niagara celebration, that Wisconsin would go for Scott. He admits he said that the Whigs of Wisconsin were probably as well united on General Scott, as any other candidate that could have been brought forward.

☞ Our townsman, Charles Geisberg, got into difficulty, and came near being imprisoned, at Berlin, Prussia, on the 28th ult., because his name in his passport was spelled Gisberg. Fortunately, Mr. Berliner, of the firm of Berliner & Bruno, of this city, was in Berlin, and testified to his identity as Charles Geisberg, when the papers of both gentlemen, which had been seized, were restored to them, and they were permitted to attend to their own business. Despotism cannot allow free locomotion.

☞ Thomas H., son of Henry Clay, contradicts the report that he shall not support Scott. He regards him reliable on the Compromise.

Increase of Population.—The number of passengers landed at San Francisco, during the month of May, was 10,651, and the depactures during the same period were 1,500. It is estimated that the increase of the population of California for the year will reach 100,000.

☞ A young man named Henry Bean, of Utica, has invented what promises to be a valuable improvement in the seeding department, especially for the prairie country of the west. It is a combination for plowing, seeding, harrowing and rolling, at one operation. It is said to have received the commendation of experienced agriculturists.

☞ Will the Sentinel please correct, and say the Free Democratic Congressional Convention, is to be held at Waupun on the 14th, and not on the 12th of September.

Hot weather—Drouth—Sickness—Canterbury—Politics—a Shaker meeting—Dress of Males—Females—Worship—reaching.

Gilmanton, N. H., Aug. 18, 1852.

Mr. Booth:—I find myself still in the Old Granite State, with very little desire to leave it, so long as the hot weather continues. Indeed, I hardly know how I could breathe in the impure air of a city, for I can hardly breathe out on these old hills, where we have a fair opportunity to catch every breath of Heaven. The weather here has been very dry and hot all this summer. Farmers complain every where of the drouth. The land is parched—the grass is almost withered, and water is failing. If fires should get a start, they would make sad work.

As the natural consequence of dry weather, there is a great deal of sickness, particularly among children. Summer complaint seems to be very fatal among them, especially in large places. Typhoid fever is also prevalent, and fatal among older persons.—If this state of things continues long, there will be much distress throughout New England.

What is the position of affairs in the west, I am really unable to know. I have not heard from there for more than a month. I do not receive any of your papers—I know not the cause, but hope they are duly sent. Indeed, I have not seen a western newspaper since I left home, and am quite newshungry. Have heard but little of politics lately, except by newspapers. There is, you know, generally, a calm just before a storm. It is said here that the general opinion is, (as a matter of course) that General Pierce will be elected. I hope not, but fear he will, for the Whigs in New England are many of them disaffected, on account of their own nominations. I fancy I see you laughing to think that a young lady like me should be interested in politics. Perhaps you forgot that I am in favor of "Women's Rights."

Last Sunday I went to a Shaker meeting. There is quite a village of the 'believers' in Canterbury. They are quite an object of curiosity to strangers, and on pleasant days there are as many 'world's people' as believers present at their meetings. My friends took me early, so that I could see the whole of the proceedings. Their church looked like a hall, and was probably built many years ago, but every part was in good keeping, and scrupulously neat and clean. The floor of hard wood almost shone—the seats were moveable benches without backs.—Some of the women rode in carriages, but the most came marching in a company.—The males and females enter by separate doors, sit and dance separately—saw but few children. The men were broad brimmed hats—their hair was cut very short, except a little on the back part of the head, which was suffered to grow and hang down their shoulders. They had on long waisted vests, The dress of the women was of a more ancient cut than that of the men. All wore white muslin caps fitting close to the head, extending over the face an inch or two, white muslin kerchiefs were neatly folded over their shoulders—their dresses, some of which were white and some striped blue and white, were made very short and plain waisted—skirts narrow and hung straight gown;—their shoes were of cloth, round toes and high heels,—handkerchiefs were carefully pinned to their sides. Had they not all looked so pale and solemn, I think the tout ensemble of their apparel would have been almost too much for my gravity. However, I managed to look wonderfully grave and gracious throughout the meeting, which lasted two hours.

Men and women took off their hats and bonnets, hung them up, and sat down a few minutes; then rose, put away their benches, stood in rows—one commenced singing, all struck in and sung two or three strains, keeping up a sort of time-beating motion with their whole bodies—then sung a livelier tune while they danced round in two kinds of circles. The step I can't describe. After dancing and singing till they were tired, (I presume) they got their benches and sat down, while one of their elders preached an extemporaneous discourse from these words: "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." The remarks were very sensible and practical, and were addressed more to the 'world's people,' than to the believers, (as they call themselves.) Again they arose, put away their seats, and sung and danced for some time, and then dismissed the 'world's people.' Their whole services were conducted with a decorum, apparent engagedness and sincerity which is worthy of imitation among other Christians. I saw no one sleeping.

Well, I have spun out my letter to a tedious length, and shall not probably write again till I go to Boston, which will be about the first of September. Kate.

HALE FOR THE HOMESTEAD BILL.

On the 17th inst., Mr. Hale endeavored to induce the Senate to take up the Homestead Bill. On the 19th he made another effort as follows:

Mr. Hunter moved that the Senate take up, during the morning hour, the civil and diplomatic appropriation bill. The only chance to have appropriation bills acted on in time, was to commence them as early as possible. He only asked for the morning hour, unless the Senate would continue to consider them.

Mr. Hale said he would object to the motion, for the reason that he desired to have one fair vote on the Homestead Bill. This morning was the proper time to move to take that bill up. If the Senate refused to take it up, he would abandon all hope for it this session.

Mr. Atchison said that if the Senator from New Hampshire would keep silent the remainder of the session, he would help that Senator to get up his bill.

Mr. Hale said it would be doing injustice to the country for him to keep silent, and injustice to the Senate to require the Senator from Missouri to be busy about any thing.

Several Senators objected; they desiring to present reports.

After considerable confusion and debate, the motion was agreed to—yeas 31, nays 17.

So the Democratic Senate gives the Homestead Bill the go-by. The professions of the Hunker Democracy in favor of the measure are a sham.

DAILY DEMOCRAT.

TUESDAY::::::::::::::::::::AUGUST 24.

POLICE COURT.—Charles Lee was brought before the police court this forenoon for examination on charge of having set fire to Ludington & Co.'s lumber yard. The examination was continued up to noon, and then adjourned until afternoon for completion.

LIQUOR SUIT.—The liquor case tried at the Police Court yesterday, resulted in the acquittal of the defendant, the prosecution neglecting to prove that he had not legally taken out a license for the sale of intoxicating drinks.

GENEROUS.—The Milwaukee Lodge, No. 2, at its meeting last evening, appropriated the sum of $25, to aid in relieving the destitution of those, in this city, who escaped from the ill-fated Atlantic—appointed a committee to act in concert with other committees, which may be appointed by other Lodges, and the citizens of Milwaukee, to investigate the matter, in order to ascertain who are really objects of charity, and apply whatever means may be collected for their relief, accordingly. We trust the efforts of this Lodge, on behalf of these unfortunate beings, will be seconded by our citizens generally, and that sufficient means will be raised immediately to render them comfortable.

The Collision on the Lake---Additional Incidents--Names of Passengers Saved--Coroner's Inquest on the Dead.

Among the incidents which we have gathered connected with the terrible catastrophe on the Lake, are the following:

While the life-boat was being lowered, Capt' Petty fell from the deck, striking his head against the boat and bounding into the water. He managed to reach the Propeller then some distance off, and the Propeller was immediately headed towards the steamer. The Atlantic had sunk to the hurricane deck before the propeller or boats reached her, and the females were then taken off as fast as possible, and after them, the males.

The following were the circumstances attending the escape of Mr. Aaron D. Sutton, his wife and two young children. While Mr. S. was adjusting the life-preserver upon his wife, some person snatched his own, and left him to his personal exertions for safety. Being an expert swimmer, he took his children and jumped into the lake, his wife following. The life preserver buoyed up Mrs. Sutton, and Mr. S. kept his children afloat until all were rescued.

George Dana, his brother Blas, and a man named Hagans, three hands belonging to the steamer, tore off the binnacle, took out the compass and throwing the box into the water went in and clung around it. They were compelled for self preservation to kick from them the forms of the drowning men and women, many of whom clung to their legs. They were among the last taken out of the lake, and were picked up by their own boat in charge of their second mate. They found the dead body of a little girl about 10 years old with her arm around a plank and her head resting on it as though she was asleep. She had nothing save her under-garment on and was quite dead. The body was taken to Erie, and is the one on which a Coroner's inquest has been held.

The last persons taken from the wreck, were Mr. Givan, the Clerk, Mr. Buell, the 1st Engineer, and a gentleman from Illinois, whose name is not known. These three were in the water clinging to ropes, and when the shrieks of the affrighted passengers were hushed in death, they heard for the first time the voice of a child who was also clinging to the ropes at some distance from them. The little fellow who was a boy of about seven years old, was saying, as if talking to himself, "Oh! I wish my papa was here to hold me up—I cannot hold on any longer, my hands are so tired." The gentleman from Illinois, a fine, stout, middle aged man, immediately expressed his determination to save the noble little fellow or perish himself. He started down the rope, and reaching the child, seized him just as he was about to sink. He held him for some time, and Mr. Givan, the Clerk endeavored to get to him to relieve him, as he expressed a fear that his strength was failing. The noble little hero told his preserver to let him go if he was tired, and take care of himself. At that moment the boat passed, loaded down to the very water's edge with passengers, and Mr. Givan hailing the mate, entreated him to save the boy at least. The mate succeeded in reaching the rope and taking the child from the arms of the true man who held him, placed him in the boat, and he was saved. The next boat took off the Illinois gentleman and the rest. The boy it is thought was with his uncle, who was lost, and who has parents in Massachusetts. He is now with his preserver probably in Cleveland.

Mrs. MILLER and two other ladies saved from the wreck of the Atlantic, ascribe their safety to the prompt and fearless efforts of Mr. L. D. CARRES, of Michigan, in their behalf. Two of the ladies he rescued from the water, and the third was unable to escape from her State Room until at the expense of severe wounds upon his hands and feet, he broke in the windows, and aided her escape.

One young lady who was saved, jumped from the wreck into the water. She was drowning; when a powerful man, supposed to be an emigrant, who was evidently unable to swim, seized a piece of plank and plunging overboard, made towards her and catching her by the hair, held her up above the water. He managed by immense exertion, to reach the side of the boat, having the young lady in one hand and the plank in the other.

A rope was thrown to him, but he could not avail himself of it, and continued in the same position until some of the hand of the boat succeeded in reaching the female and pulling her on the deck. By that time the poor fellow's strength was entirely exhausted, and he sank to rise no more.

The Porter of the boat got a bureau from the Captain's Cabin, which he emptied and cast into the lake. He jumped on to it and got some 20 or 30 persons aboard, when telling them to stick to it and they would be saved, he swam for his life and got safely to the Propeller.

The following is the list of those cabin passengers known to have been saved, as taken by the Clerk on the Propeller.

A meeting of the survivors was held in the session room of the Presbyterian Church at Erie last evening, when the following, among other resolutions, were adopted:—

Resolved, That we would call the attention of the public in particular to the insufficiency of the so called Life Preservers, which are totally useless, which was too bitterly proved to some of the unfortunates who trusted themselves to their fancied security.

Resolved, That we express our indignation at the gross neglect and criminal misconduct of the owners of the steamboat Atlantic, in not providing proper facilities to afford the passengers on board no means of saving their lives. We consider that the want of a sufficient number of boats to hold the passengers in an unanticipated contingency like the present, and the want of other loose materials to be a wanton tampering with human life, and that the owners of the unfortunate boat should be held up to the public as men who have cast aside these considerations from indifference to the lives placed in their charge.

A meeting of the citizens of Erie was afterwards called, at which much feeling was manifested, and and the following resolutions were passed:

1st. Resolved, That the loss of the steamer Atlantic, on the night of the 20th of August, is a calamity of such overwhelming and heart-rending character, that the voice of an outraged public is inadequate to its expression, and that as citizens of Erie, we desire that the proper authorities at once proceed to arrest all the officers and men who are to be found within the county, who were employed upon the Atlantic or the propeller Ogdensburgh, that the case of the collision may be correctly ascertained.

2. Resolved, That the prosecuting Attorney of this county, be requested to take immediate measures to obtain such evidence as may be desired from the passengers now in town.

3. Resolved, That, in our opinion, the officers and owners of the steamer Atlantic are highly censurable for not having provided sufficient means of relief in case of accident, and in overloading the boat with passengers and freight.

4. Resolved, That in our opinion, the life preservers attached to the stools on Ward's boats, by the late calamity, were found utterly inadequate, and totally useless, and that the India rubber life preservers on that occasion performed good service; and that the traveling public can place confidence in a well made article.

An inquest was also held in Erie last evening, on the body of a little girl, name unknown, picked up in the lake, when the following evidence was given:

De Grass McNell, sworn,—I am first mate of Propeller Oglensburg. I commenced my watch at midnight. About half-past one, saw the steamer, she had a red light aloft and two white lights below. We had two lights at the cross-trees, and another signal light in front of the wheel house. When I first saw her she was probably three miles distant. We were steering for the Welland Canal, and I judged from her course that we should pass half a mile north of her. Upon nearing her she appeared to have changed her course, and to be making across our bows. I now ordered our engines to be stopped. This was about ten minutes before the collision. Seeing that we were likely to strike together I ordered the engine to back and the wheel to be put down hard a starboard—I shouted as hard as I could—our whistle was out of order. In about two minutes we struck—the bow of our vessel striking her between the forward gangway and the wheel house, on the larboard side. I did not see or hear any person on board the Steamer when we struck—we had nearly stopped—the Atlantic was under full headway—after ascertaining that our vessel would not sink, we went to her relief, although we did not see any signal of distress, or hear her bell ring, but upon nearing we heard the cries of persons on board and in the water, we came up to her in about an hour, her lights had disappeared and her bow was under water—her stern was in sight and all three of the decks.

We came alongside and took off all the persons who had remained on her till now, our boats were engaged picking up those in the water—we afterwards made a circle of a mile in circumference, around the wreck, keeping the boats inside the circle, and we think we got on board all the living persons in the water, and on the Steamer.

We took probably 200 off the steamer, and 100 from the Lake. The Atlantic remained in the same position when we left her.

Question by Juror—If you had given the order to the man at the wheel five minutes sooner, would the collision have taken place!

Answer—It undoubtedly would not.

As we are anxious to draw out every particular connected with this affair, we give the following statement of James Carney, the 2d mate of the Atlantic which we have procured from his own words.

I was 2d mate of the Atlantic on the night of the collision with the propeller Ogdensburg the 18th inst. It was my watch on deck, the weather was smoky from the time of leaving. I saw Long Point light two miles, and think I could have seen a steamer's light one mile, Fifteen minutes after leaving Long Point light, which we passed at 2 o'clock, made Propeller's light nearly a point on our larboard bow. We were steering S. W. by W. our usual course, when I saw Propeller's light which was very dim. I put the wheel "a port" and kept her off W. S. W. In two minutes after, the Propeller struck us twenty feet forward of the wheel on our larboard side. I saw no signal light of red and blue on Propeller until after she struck us. Heard the engine bell of the Propeller about this time.

As soon as we were struck I gave the orders to to the wheelsman to steer her for the shore, which was within four miles. I then ran down on the main deck to see if I could discover the extent of the injury, and returned immediately to the upper deck. Mr. Blodgett, the first mate, was then at the pilot house. I told him she was sinking, and he ordered me to run below and see if she was filling. I then went into the steerage, which is forward, and found no water on her floors, but could not get up the hatches to look below. I then returned to the fire hole and saw the water rushing in, in torrents, carrying with it coal, ashes, &c.

I then went to listing her with passengers and freight to the starboard, in hopes to relieve the leak, but found it impossible, as she was fast settling forward. I then returned to the hurricane deck, and heard Capt. Petty giving orders to those congregated there to keep quiet. Orders were then given to get the two boats which were on the hurricane deck, ready, and also the working boat. The steamer settled gradually, and I should judge it was all of 20 minutes before the water came up to the hurricane deck. I should think it was at least half an hour after we were struck before the propeller came within hailing distance. Had the propeller, when we first saw her, put her wheel 'a port," we should have cleared her. JAMES CARNY.

The schooner Dewitt Clinton from Erie, reports having found a large amount of valuable property in the lake belonging to the Atlantic.

The steamer Clinton reached the wreck yesterday morning and saw the last part of her hurricane deck disappear. She is now entirely under water.

A Breeze in Congress.

The following sketch of a scene in the House of Representatives on the 18th instant, will give the reader some faint idea of the insolent, overbearing course pursued by some of the peculiar champions of Slavery, whenever a Northern man, in the exercise of his undoubted liberty of speech, dares to say a word in derogation of the "peculiar institution."

Mr. HORACE MANN, of Massachusetts, had been speaking of the Baltimore Platforms and the futility of the attempt to silence the voice of mankind on the subject of Slavery. The report proceeds thus:

He then proceeded to condemn slavery in the strongest terms, depicting the degrading evils and enormous crimes attached to it.

M. Polk asked him to paint a picture of the negroes in the Northern States.

Mr. Mann—I will at another time.

Mr. Polk—I insist upon it now. The remarks are unworthy of a member on this floor, and therefore I ask that he give it now.

(Sensation, and cries of order, order.)

Mr. Mann—The gentleman must not forbid our discussing slavery.

Mr. Polk—I brand as a slander that which you are guilty of uttering.

Mr. Mann—It is not for others, when a gentleman obtains the floor, to dictate the topics on which he shall speak.

Mr. Polk, who was seated on the opposite side of the hall, cried out—"You have perpetrated a foul slander on the South."

(Cries of order, and much excitement.)

Mr. Harris, (of Alabama,) rose to a question of order. The gentleman was assailing an existing institution of the South, an institution sanctioned by the Constitution.

The Chairman (Mr. Ficklin) decided that the latitude of debate in Committee was broad, and the gentleman was in order.

[Gentlemen were now standing in all parts of the hall.]

Mr. Polk—I would ask whether it is right for the gentleman to thus assail the institutions of the South in which many of us are interested when be does not hold himself responsible for the insult.

[Cries of order, and banging of the Chairman's gavel.]

Mr. Mann—I hope this interruption will not come out of my time.

Mr. Fowler—I rise to say that when the gentleman from Massachusetts, in the possession of his prerogative, has the floor, he should be permitted to go on and the house should sustain the Chair.

Mr. Polk—When a gentleman propagates a falsehood on one-half of the nation, he should not be allowed to go on.

Mr. Meade—I ask for the reading of the 31st rule.

Mr. S. W. Howe—I ask for the reading of the two platforms. (Laughter.)

Mr. Meade—The two platforms and the 31st rule prohibit the discussion of the question before the Committee, for it is not germane to the subject pending.

The Chairman said if his decision was not satisfactory, an appeal could be taken from it.

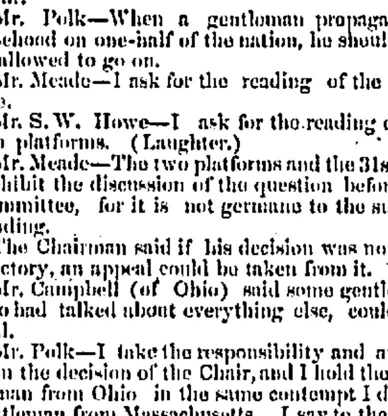

Mr. Campbell (of Ohio) said some gentleman who had talked about everything else, could appeal.

Mr. Polk—I take the responsibility and appeal from the decision of the Chair, and I hold the gentleman from Ohio in the same contempt I do the gentleman from Massachusetts. I say to the gentleman from Ohio, I hold him—(the remaining part of the sentence was drowned in loud cries of 'Order,") "Order.")

The question having been taken, the Chairman was sustained in deciding the gentleman from Massachusetts in order.

Comparative quiet ensued, when Mr. Mann resumed and concluded his remarks.

The Death of Rantoul.

BY WILLIAM SYDNEY THAYER.

The patriot and the friend of human kind,
 The man of many gifts has passed from sight;
Men's hearts are stilled with terrors undefined;—
 The Great Hope of a nation sinks in night.

O, Mighty Champion fallen! who, like thee,
 Shall for sweet Freedom's sake now summon forth
The legions of that fierce Democracy
 Whose thunderous footfall soon shall shake the North!

Yet, from his grave a voice, not of despair,
 Shall rouse to life new heroes in the land;—
Spirit of Freedom! grant that they may share
 The purpose and the strength that nerved his hand.

Be theirs the deathless energy sublime
 That owns no rival in its high estate,
Snatches the sceptre from the hands of Time
 And plants its foot upon the neck of Fate!

THE DEMOCRACY OF CHRISTIANITY:

OR AN

ANALYSIS OF THE BIBLE AND ITS DOCTRINES, IN THEIR RELATION TO THE PRINCIPLE OF DEMOCRACY.

In Two Volumes, comprising 875 pages.

By WM. GOODELL,

Published by Cady & Burgess, 60 John st., New-York.

THIS great work is strongly recommended by B. P. Aydelott, D. D., late President of Woodward College, Cincinnati; by Prof. Hudson, of Oberlin; by Hon. Amasa Walker, Secretary of State of Massachusetts, and by a great number of the first men of our country.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have read the book through very attentively, and can bear testimony to its great ability, and the soundness of its principles. * * * The essay is a very able one, and well adapted, as Cobbett used to say, for a thinking people, and no fair minded and intelligent reader can rise from a perusal of it without a higher appreciation of the Mosaic code, and of true democratic principles."—N. Y. Tribune.

"This work appears anonymously, but it discloses qualities of authorship, of which the writer need not be ashamed. * * * He strikes at the root of the business at once. He traces the democratic principle as it is mingled in all God's provisions for the Patriarchs and the Israelites in the clearest manner. His analysis of the tendency and character of the Mosaic Institutes is particularly able. He discovers a degree of wisdom and benevolence in those provisions but little understood. We have never seen the political bearings and scope of the Mosaic law so strikingly portrayed. The present volume respects only the doctrines of the Old Testament—we hope the author will be encouraged to go on with the searching and impartial examination."—New York Evangelist.

"The author has given some beautiful illustrations, drawn from Scripture, showing that it abounds with democratic sentiment. * * * It is a work that should attract the attention of the thinking portion of society. The style is attractive, and the subject an interesting one."—American Statesman.

"This, 'Citizen of the United States' deserves a hearing. He is a strong thinker and an able writer—indeed he must be a man of great experience with the pen.—* * * Sweeping from Genesis onward, not a ray of light escapes him which can be construed into the dawning of those glorious popular institutions which we now enjoy. And he certainly finds a great deal to his purpose. * * * The truth is, the Mosaic code made advances towards democracy which stood alone for centuries, and when we take the strong glasses of such a writer as this our veneration of the Bible is placed on a very high footing."—Boston Chronotype.

"The subject of the volume is well handled, and justly proved on the observation of the reader."—Democratic Review.

"We advise all classes to 'read, mark, and inwardly digest' this volume."—Ontario Messenger.

"The field of discussion opened is broad and rich; has been ably explored, and its treasures of precious truth are revealed with a master's hand."—Oberlin Evangelist.

"The conception of this work is original. * * * We commend it to the perusal and careful study of all classes."—Ohio Star.

"We have neither time nor space to give a general or extended notice of this invaluable production, but merely drop a hint, that our friends may not deprive themselves a single moment of a rich treat, but lay fast hold of it now."—Golden Rule.

GREAT WORK ON CIVILIZATION.

This great work can be had at OTT'S Bookstore, 275 East Water street. It is the work of the age. From a large number of liberal and highly complimentary notices of this work, from the religious and secular press, we only select the following:

"This admirable work is at length before us, and we hasten to inform our readers of the valuable addition, which has thus been made to the Literature of our country. The work is by far the most important of its kind, ever published in this country. It is in fact a complete library in itself, condensed and so arranged as to bring the whole question within the grasp of the humblest reader. It appears most appropriately at the present time, and will, no doubt, prove an instrument of great efficiency in the work of diffusing sound doctrines on the matter of which it treats."—Truth Teller. april22
